PUBLISHER THE ECHO IN THE HEART OF THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

Trip From El Paso, Texas, to Albuquerque, New Mexico, Through Unusual Country of Mountain Range. No Rain For Seven Years—Cattle Shipped to Old Mexico for Grazing.

INDIANS ARE CIVILIZED, BUT REMAIN TRUE TO COLORS AND TRADITIONS.

Interesting Visit to Pueblo at Isleta, Where Eleven Hundred Indians Abide—Catholic Church There, With Padre, Who Has Seen Thirty-Two Years Active Service in Midst of Red Men—On to Grand Canyon and California.

(Editorial Correspondence.)

Albuquerque, N. M., June 20.
To California! How many pleasant anticipations are there to conjure, but a trip away from the beaten path has much in store.

Leaving New Orleans over the Southern Pacific, a stop at El Paso, Texas, is to be desired. Here we take the Santa Fe Railroad route, Arizona, and instead through this land of the great Southwest so rich in Indian lore. From New Orleans to El Paso it is 1,200 miles, a run of magnificent distance, and it is refreshing to get off the train on the second night's run. One not only gets the much-desired bath, but good food to sleep in at the Paso del Norte Hotel.

On the trip up from New Orleans there were many charming people in our Pullman—all bound for California. Among them were Miss Poole, daughter of Editor Poole of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, and Miss Edwards, a sister of Mrs. Geo. H. Edwards, of Bay St. Louis.

El Paso to Albuquerque.
Always ride on a Santa Fe train, if you can. It is worth while. And Fred Harvey's meals are all that the name linked with a reputation imply. It is an all day ride from El Paso to Albuquerque, covering a distance of 252 miles.

The train runs along the banks of the Rio Grande river from the time of leaving El Paso depot, almost a stone's throw from Old Mexico. The adobe house is in evidence on all sides. Not built for the extremely picturesque effect, but to meet the climatic conditions of this arid country. The adobe house is cool in summer and warm in winter. Not only the Mexican class build and live in the adobe dwelling, but many houses of the better class are thus constructed.

For seventy-five miles, or less, the Santa Fe train hugs the shores of the Rio Grande river, going directly north through New Mexico, bound for Albuquerque. For a while the river is lost to sight, a chain of mountains intervening. Then again it hovers into sight. There are no dining cars on this branch of the line, but the depot hotel, with its Fred Harvey meals make the trip delightful. At Rincon, N. M., is our stop for dinner, some seventy odd miles from El Paso. After a splendid meal, exchanging amenities with the conductor and others, we plunge into the mountains and desert country for nearly all the balance of the day.

No Rain For Seven Years.
One can scarce believe this, but you inquire of several persons and the information you first received is confirmed. But let us be correct. There was a light rain about two years ago, but even that is too long ago to consider.

And this lack of rain for seven years has played havoc in this part of the country. It is a great stock-growing country. There are great cattle ranches, and hereof cattle do best. They thrive on the open range get more nourishment from the stubble grass of Texas and New Mexico, can go longer without water and practically need no attention.

At Zengle, New Mexico, I had quite a chat with Louis Lennox. He is owner of one of the biggest cattle ranches of this section. He said there was very little live stock left in this section. It had been bonded and shipped into Old Mexico, and arranged so with the Mexican government as to preclude the paying of customs duty on return to the United States. In parts of Mexico, where the cattle had been shipped in, no less than 10,000 car loads, rain had fallen and grazing was good.

There is very little live stock left in this section. From the train window it was a common sight at intervals to see the carcass of a steer or horse.

The mountains on each side, possibly thirty miles from the train, are barren and the valley of sand, cactus, sage brush and Mexican dagger plants, show great want of water. Even this class of vegetation that thrives only in the arid area, shows the blight of the seven-year dry spell.

Jack Rabbits Are Few and Lean.
Here is the home of the jack rabbit. We saw quite a number from the train. They were looking skin and bone. How the few remaining jack rabbits know one to express surprise. They are so tall and gaunt looking and spring along so awkwardly as to suggest the kangaroo to one's mind.

A. & V. AND V. S. & P. RY. COS. CLERKS' OUTING

Special Train Arrived Here Thursday, June 28th, Carrying About Five Hundred People.

A special train consisting of coaches—about 500 people—arrived at the Bay on Thursday last for their annual outing, under the management of Mr. Wm. Baader. A grand program, consisting of every sport from swimming contests to baseball, had been arranged, a very fine jazz band employed—and everything to gladden the hearts of the picnickers was thought of.

The baseball game went only two innings when rain forced them to quit. In fact, every sport arranged had to be omitted with the exception of swimming and dancing.

The Brothers at St. Stanislaus College proffered the use of the auditorium and the grounds, which were eagerly accepted, and what seemed to give promise of a miserable day ended in one of keen pleasure.

The clerks voted their thanks to the kind Brothers for their consideration and they took away with them pleasant recollections despite the fact that Jupiter Pluvius had such a fierce disposition.

TWO-YEAR POLL TAX IN MISSISSIPPI VOTING O. K.'D.

Committee Sets Aside View of the Attorney General—Will Have the Effect of Disqualifying Thousands of Women Voters.

Jackson, Miss., June 21.—Action of the Democratic State executive committee in setting aside the "wide open" ruling of Attorney General Clayton Potter, in reference to qualifications for suffrage, is a subject of much discussion in political circles. While it is possible that the committee's interpretation may not be strictly enforced in all counties, as there has always been much laxity in certain sections of the State, at the same time it is expected to have a salutary effect in preventing illegal voting.

As interpreted by the Democratic State executive committee, the constitution and the statutes require that a person must have paid poll taxes for two years prior to the election in which he or she offers to vote. The attorney general holds that payment of poll tax is not a requisite, unless assessed against the person. None of the attorney generals prior to Mr. Potter have coincided with his view, but to the contrary upheld the interpretation adopted by the State executive committee.

Opponents of the committee ruling hold that it will have the effect of "disqualifying thousands of women who want to vote." It could not have this effect, of course, for the class of women referred to have never qualified for suffrage, and their failure to do so may be attributed, in a very large majority of instances, to their utter lack of interest in political affairs. The committee is therefore opposed to allowing these women to be brought to the polls at the last moment by what is merely regarded as a shallow and wholly erroneous interpretation of the election laws.

During the debate at the committee session on Monday the point was brought out by Mr. Frederick Sullens that the federal amendment conferring suffrage on women merely gave them equal rights with men, and that the State committee is wholly without authority to grant to the fair sex special rights, extraordinary privileges or unusual immunities and exemptions. "It is very nice to be galant to the ladies," he said, "but we can't afford to do it at the expense of the constitution, and no woman who has sense enough to exercise the franchise will expect us to do so."

It is expected that, with this interpretation of the law generally observed, there will be about 75,000 women of voting age in the August primaries, and this fairly represents the number of women who have taken the trouble to qualify themselves for suffrage within the time limits, and in the manner prescribed by law.

The committee filled one of the existing vacancies in its membership by electing Mrs. Lizzie George Henderson, of Greenwood, daughter of the late Senator J. Z. George, as committee woman from the third district. Mrs. Henderson is recognized as perhaps the foremost woman leader in the commonwealth. There are now three women on the committee, the others being Miss Caruthers of Como, and Mrs. Howard S. Williams of Hattiesburg.

The committee will meet on July 23 to declare as party nominees those State candidates without opposition. Those in this fortunate class thus far are: Dennis Murphree, candidate for lieutenant governor; W. J. Buck, clerk of the Supreme Court; L. C. Stone, prison trustee in the northern district, and J. F. Thomas, prison trustee in the southern district.

BOXING CONTEST SCHEDULED FOR JULY 6.

A lively boxing exhibition, for the benefit and under the auspices of local Hottelitzer Company No. 155, M. S. Infantry, will take place on the evening of July 6th, at their armory in Greenwood. A first class main bout between "Dud" Carver, the local prize, and Adam Gomez, of New Orleans, will be the main attraction, preceded by three excellent preliminaries of four and six rounds.

Adam Gomez, who will be one of the principals, is a first class boxer, fighting among the best in the Great City and working his way surely to the top. While "Dud" Carver hardly requires an introduction here, it will not be amiss to say that any one paying to see him in action never regrets the price of admission. Ladies attending the contest are assured that some order will be

HIGH SCHOOL BOND ISSUE BEING VOTED ON TODAY.

Large Parade of Autos Held Last Night—Bay Enterprise Published.

Last evening headed by a truck containing a jazz band, were some twenty-five automobiles, loaded with school children and decorated with flags and bunting, many having large posters attached to them calling on the citizens to vote for the hundred-thousand-dollar bond issue on Saturday, June 30.

When the band ceased playing the happy children took up the cry "Vote for the Bonds!"

The principal streets of the city were traversed over and over. A very snappy edition of the "Bay Enterprise" was published recently. Its columns devoted entirely to the advantages to be derived by a fine school, and many copies were sent broadcast about the town.

The edition was very creditable and The Echo congratulates its editors on their achievement.

The Echo has always stood for the building of a first class high school community. Its columns have always been open to the public to air their views on the subject. In fact, several communications have been published boosting the building of a school. Unfortunately its editor and publisher has been absent in the Far West for several weeks, and therefore out of touch with the situation. The evidence points to an overwhelming majority in favor of the issue.

At the hour The Echo goes to press (2:00 P. M.) 180 votes have been cast, and workers at the polls claim the school-bond wins by hand-count vote.

PERSIMMON BEER OUTPUT EXPECTED TO BE ENORMOUS.

At last the Government of the United States of America has recognized persimmons! Laugh if you like, but that statement is no humbug.

For the first time in history, so far as could be learned yesterday, the United States Department of Agriculture has included the persimmon "show" in its reports on the production of "fruit" crops in Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Just how the official recognition came about is not known. Maybe it was an act of Congress or another constitutional amendment. Anyhow, Lionel L. Jasse, agricultural statistician for the district, declared in the official semi-monthly regional report that "persimmons are good for grapes, persimmons, pears, figs, peaches in Louisiana."

Then the report goes along in a serious tone, declaring that all fruit in Mississippi was damaged by cold, wet spring while early peaches are being harvested in Western Arkansas and in the Red River valley in Oklahoma.

Mr. Jasse said the wild persimmon crop was so large this year that a survey will be given in each report. To just what persons will be regarded as a shallow and wholly erroneous interpretation of the election laws.

During the debate at the committee session on Monday the point was brought out by Mr. Frederick Sullens that the federal amendment conferring suffrage on women merely gave them equal rights with men, and that the State committee is wholly without authority to grant to the fair sex special rights, extraordinary privileges or unusual immunities and exemptions.

BRIDE-TO-BE WAITS IN VAIN AT CHURCH FOR MAN OF CHOICE

Chief-Stricken New Orleans Families Conducting a Search for Young James Kieffer, Well Known College Athlete and Baseball Player of Great Promise.

ATTENDED ST. STANISLAUS COLLEGE HERE AND WAS ATHLETIC SPORT.

Disappeared From New Orleans Few Hours Before He Was To Be Married—Atmosphere That Breathes of Mystery Surrounds Disappearance—Friends and Relatives Can Advance No Reason for Strange Act—Bride-to-Be Prostrated.

Two grief-stricken New Orleans families are conducting a search for James Kieffer, 20 years old, widely known as "Jimmy," and an athlete of note, who disappeared yesterday morning a few hours before he was to have been married to Miss Doris Voss, 2525 Ursuline avenue.

About the disappearance of the young man is an atmosphere that breathes of mystery. No reason for his disappearance is known by his relatives and intended bride, nor can his many friends advance a reason. A quiet search is being made and in the meantime Miss Voss, ill from the shock, is at her home.

At the St. Rose de Lima Church, in Bayou Road, everything was in readiness for the wedding yesterday morning, which was to have been at 10 o'clock. Early in the morning the young couple, with their relatives and the bridal party, attended communion at the church. Then young Kieffer left, saying he was going for the ring. He has not been seen since.

In the meantime the invited guests, several hundred in number, assembled at the church, where the priest was waiting. Nearly two hours passed—hours in which expectancy gave way to worry and then to fear.

At last last night the young man had not returned and the relatives of both were gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Voss, parents of the prospective bride. A Times-Picayune reporter visited the home and found several of the women in tears, the men silent and noncommittal. Miss Voss, a pretty, dark-haired girl of 19 years, entered the parlor of the home during the stay of the reporter. She was crying.

"Jimmy" Kieffer formerly was employed at the Marine Bank as a clerk. He won many laurels as an athlete at St. Stanislaus College and is regarded as an all-around man in sports. —Times-Picayune, June 27.

Jimmy Kieffer was very well known here, having been educated at St. Stanislaus College, where he graduated with the class of 1922. His friends, who are legion, deeply deplore the unfortunate occurrence and are loath to think that "Crick" —as he was affectionately known—could be guilty of any misconduct, as his reputation for honest, straightforwardness has never been questioned.

That he is suffering from amnesia, induced by a recent accident, is the consensus of opinion and we firmly believe that time will prove the assertion that he did no wilful wrong.

Latest dispatches give very faint glues to the young man's whereabouts, but it is believed by his friends that he will soon be located.

Several complaints of reckless, careless driving and of auto drivers turning corners swiftly without blowing their horns have been reported to this office. Efforts should be made to prevent auto accidents and persons showing a disregard for others should be punished. At this time of the year there is larger auto traffic on our streets, and accidents are more liable; therefore, more precautions are necessary.

BAY HOME ECONOMICS CLUB IS ORGANIZED.

Formal organization of the Bay Home Economics Club was effected at a meeting in the Hancock county Courthouse Friday afternoon. Miss M. Odum, county demonstrator, organized the club, which started out with a charter membership of nineteen.

Officers elected are Mrs. Donald Marshall, president; Mrs. R. N. Stephens, vice president; Mrs. T. J. West, secretary, and Mrs. T. J. Parrilla, reporter.

Ways and means of inducing closer co-operation between the town and country people for their mutual benefit were discussed at the meeting and much good is expected to develop from getting each to lend the helping hand to the other. Regular meetings of the club will be held in the courthouse on the last Saturday of each month.

W. J. GALLUP APPOINTED AS SUPERINTENDENT WATERWORKS.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen in special session appointed our fellow townsman, Will J. Gallup, as superintendent of waterworks for the city of Bay St. Louis.

The selection of Mr. Gallup was made after a long deliberation and could not be improved upon, as in him they find a thoroughly efficient, painstaking and capable man; one who is a master plumber and knows the business from the very bottom. Resting a responsibility in the hands of a capable man is just cause for a compliment to our worthy Board.

BAY WAVELAND REGATTA BIG EVENT.

Saturday, July 14th, Will Tax Accommodations of Popular Coast Town.

Record breaking attendance from New Orleans and all Coast towns is assured by the interest generally manifested in the second annual regatta of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, on Saturday, July 14th.

The number of entries of all classes of sailing craft and the enthusiasm of the owners, skippers and crews clearly demonstrate the popularity of the Bay-Waveland Club with the sportsmen. The club is sparing no effort of expense in its preparation for the event.

Open house will be kept from noon to 6 p. m., during which the doors will be open to all visitors. Schilling's orchestra will furnish dance music continuously in the main ball room.

Arrangements have been made to take care of the overflow crowds in the St. Stanislaus College pier, from which a splendid view of the races may be had, as well as from the main pier opposite the main club entrance.

Refreshments will be served upon the pier as well as in the club grill. All entries for sail and power boat races should be addressed to Louis H. Burns, chairman regatta committee.

The regatta ball will open at 8 p. m., invitations for which may be had of any member, or from the secretary.

The officers and committees in full are as follows: Officers—Earnest J. Leonhard, commodore; Edgar M. Rea, vice commodore; Bernard C. Shields, rear commodore; Glenn Penrose, fleet captain; Dr. A. P. Smith, fleet surgeon; C. G. Ferguson, W. J. Merrimill, W. J. Estroup, measurers; J. W. Wadsworth, W. Partridge, B. Bokenfohr, timers; G. W. Chapman, Frank Green; Lee B. Edwards, W. Parham, R. N. Blaize, judges.

Regatta Committee—L. H. Burns, chairman. Racing—C. G. Ferguson, chairman; W. Partridge, G. W. Chapman, C. A. Spori, Jr., W. H. Parham, Lee B. Edwards, Chas. A. Breath, R. W. Sittrunk, Y. A. Merrimill, W. J. Estioup, L. Wadsworth, C. J. Caron, E. W. Drackett, Peter Judin.

Reception—B. C. Shields, chairman; Edw. Schwartz, P. V. Lacoste, S. Palanque, Emile Cue, H. S. Renshaw, R. W. Webb, Adam Lorch, R. N. Blaize, Jos. Rityak, S. L. Engman, W. F. Oakes, Oscar A. Flick, Dr. J. A. Evans, Horatio Weston, W. S. Callender, Geo. Pitcher, Geo. E. Morris, Dr. C. L. Horton.

Entertainment—E. J. Lacoste, chairman; Chas. G. Moreau, H. S. Saucier, W. B. Allison, A. W. Chapman, James Geary, R. P. Hyams, A. E. Mill, Harold Weston, Roland Weston, J. S. DeBen, Geo. Rea, Justin Green, Aug. Schiro, Lamar Otis, James Sylvester, Ronald Hymel, Dr. S. L. Lewis, A. Battistella, Leo W. Seal, R. T. Perkins.

K. OF C. BALL BIG SUCCESS.

Casey was King last Wednesday night at the Woodmen Hall, and led the dancing merry-makers. The spirits till the wee sma' hours of morn. The hall was very well filled from the early hours until the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" bade them depart.

The ball was given for the purpose of raising the Knights of Columbus to build their home, and proved a howling success.

Much credit is to be given the various committees for their ardent work and support, particularly to Mr. W. H. Starr, the chairman, who labored incessantly towards success, with his usual whole-hearted and self-sacrificing earnestness.

The Echo was unable to learn the amount realized on account of the fact that holders of tickets have not made final returns. Mr. Starr requests us to urge all brothers holding tickets to make returns to him as soon as possible.

According to Bradstreet's the total value of building permits issued at 131 cities for May was $238,314.43, compared to $287,084,634 at the identical cities in April, and $314,141,886 in March. However, compared to May a year ago, there is a gain still indicated for May, 1923, at these identical cities of $18,400,000 or 8.3 per cent.

Pressure Too Great For Old Fittings. Many Blow Up.

On Wednesday last a working "pressure" was put on the new waterworks by the contractor. The pressure proved too strong for some poor fittings that were left attached to the mains and the result was many blow-outs, in some places the water spurting up as high as thirty feet.

It developed that some old piping had been allowed to remain in position and many connections were not deemed necessary to change. When the excessive strain was thrown upon these weak places they could not stand it and gave way.

It is feared that if a higher pressure is tried—after the mains are replaced or repaired sufficiently—that the ordinary plumbing found in many homes will not be able to withstand the shock. It would be wise for property owners to see what timely precautions they may take to evade a catastrophe, particularly by partly closing valves that lead from the mains to the sanitary and other equipment of the home.

ATTENTION, LEGIONNAIRES!

The Clement R. Bontemp Post, No. 139, will hold other banner meeting at the Woodmen Hall on the night of July 3rd, at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT HERE A BIG SUCCESS.

Nine Churches Represented by Over Eighty People in Attendance.

Through the untiring efforts of Rev. B. F. Whitten, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis, a great event for the Baptists of Hancock county has been brought to pass. Somebody said, "It couldn't be done," but the Baptist Encampment of Hancock county was really held June 25-30, with nine churches represented by 82 people in attendance.

Dr. R. B. Gunter, State Mission secretary, of Jackson, Miss., delivered three inspirational and educational addresses, as follows: Monday evening, "Why We Are Baptists"; Tuesday evening, "Why We Are Missionary Baptists"; Wednesday evening, "The Master's Conception of Greatness."

Much interest was shown in the class work given during the morning session. Miss Fannie Trayler, State worker from Jackson, held a class in Woman's Missionary Work.

Rev. S. G. Posey, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Biloxi, and Miss Louanna Whitten, of this city, had charge of the Sunday School work. Mr. Posey led a large class in "Winning to Christ." Miss Whitten taught the Convention Normal Manual.

Two enthusiastic classes of Baptist Young People's Union members were instructed by Miss Hattie Bell McCracken, of Mississippi Woman's College, of Hattiesburg.

A stereotyped program given by Brother Whitten, showing the Baptist Colleges of the South, with their presidents, was thoroughly enjoyed by the members and visitors of the encampment Thursday evening.

All meals were cooked and served on the school grounds, most of them being enjoyed in the open under the beautiful trees.

The young people were bubbling over with enthusiasm, as was manifested by their yells and pep songs. All visitors enjoyed boating, bathing, fishing and riding.

Altogether the encampment was a great success despite the weather conditions. Plans are already in formation for another encampment a year from this time.

NOW is the time to begin! Let's set our goal to 200 in attendance, repeating every Baptist Church in the County.

PINE INDUSTRY NOT SERIOUSLY HIT BY EXODUS OF LABOR.

That the widely heralded exodus of negro labor to the North has not seriously disturbed the operation of the Southern pine saw mills generally, lumber during the first four months of 1923 was larger than for the same period in the last three years, that shipments from these mills have been greater than during the first four months of any other year on record and that stocks of Southern pine lumber on hand early in 1920, are among the interesting facts set forth in the June issue of the Southern Pine Association's economics and statistics bulletin, just published.

In certain localities, the bulletin states, mills report a shortage of both white and colored labor, but this shortage has not been sufficiently important to curtail the operations to any extent.

Actual construction volume in May, as shown by contracts awarded, was the largest on record, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The highest high record was in May of last year and the increase shown last month over the previous May was nearly 5 per cent. Total contracts awarded in May in the 36 Eastern States (including about 87.5 per cent of the country's total construction), amounted to $433,906,000, an increase over April of 8.7 per cent.

According to Bradstreet's the total value of building permits issued at 131 cities for May was $238,314.43, compared to $287,084,634 at the identical cities in April, and $314,141,886 in March. ### A CALL TO THE HEAT-RIDDEN CITY DWELLERS

Tourists Returning to the Crescent City Tell Lures of Summer on the Gulf Coast—Fish are Running, Crabs Are Hungry, and the Sun Is Just as Good as Ever.

CORRESPONDENT OF AD-VANTAGES OF COAST.

Coast Holds Open Vacation Resource—Progressive and Thriving Communities for the Home Builder. Satisfying Oranges Thrive in Rich Alluvial Land—Poultry Raising Is Profitable—Acres of Acres Covered With Strawberries.

This is the season when we of the beautiful Gulf Coast would fain raise our voices that those who are in the torrid confines of the city might hear and heed; that we who are with us, where the breeze blows from the sea or the soft sun comes from an incandescent sky.

Here in Bay St. Louis, are to be found the many things that go to make life a joy. Besides the gold bathing and fishing, there are excellent pavilions where excellent music is heard and enjoyed; or large and comfortable ferry, the Gulf N. B. Ferry gives Sunday evening outings over the beautiful bosom of the bay; or you can take a day's fishing on a truck ride, fish for a soft-shell crabbing, floundering at a water-mill on parties, etc., are on almost every night, and life is one round of healthful sport.

Urgently recommending the Gulf Coast as the ideal resort is the following from the Times-Picayune of recent date:

Members of that annual first contingent of pioneer vacationists are back to fight the city's heat with memories of an early June rest at the stories thereof. No many are eager to bundle up baby, and hike off so early in the summer before the mosquitoes have recited their full war quota or before the grasshoppers sound quite as much as usual, but there are always those who even enjoy an early vacation. They're not sorry for it. Listen to their tales.

Of course those who have homes and cottages along the lake and Gulf Coast enjoyed fixing the greens during the summer vacation. They found the leaks that inevitably develop during the winter months. There was that old-time feeling of keeping the first night in a strange place with no neighbors around. The noise of the frogs and crickets on the grasshoppers sounded much to der. They didn't mind it.

They do say, these returning vacationists, that the fish are running, the crabs are hungry and the sun is just as good as ever it was for putting on a fashionable tan. That's the thing for the vacationist nowadays. Most of them own their cars, and those who are traveling are inclined toward trucking, favoring an auto out of the city for a week-end, or week or two weeks, excellent railroad service is being offered by the Louisville and Nashville.

No one fails to find a favorite sport on the coast. For the fisherman there is fish; for the golfer there is golf; horses and there is a canter along the pretty overgrown roads in the cool mornings; the birds are wonderful; and there is recreation among fresh breezes of the coast and beautiful natural surroundings of the real South.

All at it is the line there's the vacationists' paradise. Fishing is excellent at Waveland and at Bay St. Louis, the cottagers are beginning to arrive, the hotels have been renovated for an unusual season and the golf links are ready.

Vacation is not the only thing, however, the Coast has to offer. It holds open vast natural resources for the home builder. Satisfying oranges thrive in the rich land; poultry raising is a profitable acre on acres, are covered with strawberries, and there are acres of large paper-shelled pecan.

Whether it be home or vacation ground, the Gulf Coast is a place. It's the South's

AIR YOUR VIEWS.

A great many people labor under the impression that it is a difficult proposition to get their views into the columns of a newspaper.

Situations, often of momentous occasion, arise in a community where a good many people would like to express their sentiments in print, but hesitate and are restrained by their fear that the town paper might reject their letters.

In view of that fact, and in order to correct an erroneous impression, The Echo desires to state that its columns are always open to the public. This paper is a public institution, as it were, an instrument for the furtherance of the public's desires and for the weal of the whole people.

Any person, desiring to express themselves upon any subject of public interest, are welcomed and will find The Echo ready and willing to give them space; providing, however, that they adhere to the rules governing such matters, for example:

Anonymous letters will not be recognized. Parties submitting letters may adopt a "non de plume," which will be printed with the letter, but the original must needs be signed by the writer as a show of good faith with the paper, which, however, is held inviolate by the editor and only revealed upon consent of the writer. #### THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

You've the wrong impression if you think a proper celebration of the Fourth of July means touching off a lot of fireworks and wasting money that could be used to better advantage. Neither are you right in believing that it consists in loading up the family flivver with gas and seeing how many miles you can cover between sunup and sundown. No, our forefathers who wrote and signed the most wonderful document the world will ever know had neither of these in mind when they performed an act which justified a holiday for the American people.

There is no better way for people to spend a patriotic Fourth of July than to spend it in a simple, quiet visitation among relatives and friends or even in a little family party at home, or in a grove nearby. The church picnic is also an ideal Fourth of July celebration, and so is the community or the school picnic. The family reunion, after a nice big dinner, and a place for the children to play, is another enjoyable and appropriate manner of observing the event. And there is always someone present who can entertain with reminiscences of early days and early ways that will make the time both interesting and enjoyable.

CLEANING THE SHARKS.

Uncle Sam has been doing a pretty good job in Texas during the past few weeks, and we hope he keeps up the work and extends it to such other fields that are badly in need of such a campaign. We refer to the court battle he has made upon prominent operators in fake oil stock. Within the past few weeks at least three have been given penitentiary sentences of ten years each, and many others are awaiting their day in court.

There is good oil stock, the same as there is good copper and gold and rubber stock. But somehow oil stock seems to be the favorite bait of the man who sets out to make a dishonest living, possibly because oil offers a quick return on the money. We know men who have invested in oil stocks and made fair returns on their money. We know others who are holding stock that isn't worth the paper it is printed on, and never will be.

There is enough danger in stocks of any kind without some sharper taking a hand in circulating them. Uncle Sam has sent out many warnings, and newspapers throughout the entire country have urged their readers not to be tempted by the magic offers and alluring promises of get-rich-quick concerns. But the past few weeks have brought forth the only real steps that have been taken for a long time to put the real facts behind the hype. And every

WATCH THE WEEDS.

We don't want citizens to regard us in the light of a "nag," and yet we feel it a duty we owe the community in general to call attention to the heavy crop of weeds to be found growing in several places about town. If no other reason than the fact that they look bad could be advanced for cutting them, that would be sufficient. But there is a greater and a more serious reason why it should be done, and without further delay.

Weeds become disease. They offer a shelter for germ-carrying insects, flies and mosquitoes, and furnish them an ideal breeding place. Sections where weeds are kept cut do not have to contend with annoying insects like those places where the weeds are permitted to grow as they please, and where the scythe is never applied. Pride in your neighborhood ought to be strong enough to warrant an hour or so at weed cutting every few weeks, to say nothing of the benefit that will come through eliminating a place which, if left to grow, might breed the very insect that would start an epidemic of sickness. The fact that someone else has permitted them to grow even higher than the ones you are neglecting to cut is a poor alibi for you. No matter what the other fellow does—get busy and clean up your own property. It won't be long until he will fall into line.

We are well into the most dangerous period of the year. Let's not take chances on an epidemic that would bring sorrow into many homes, and that we would regret to the end of our days. Let's make war on the weeds, and keep it up until fall.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS.

At the present rate it isn't going to be long until finding a place to hold a little family outing is going to be almost impossible. There are lots of land owners who have no objection to parties stopping on their premises, in a shady grove or near a convenient stream, to pitch camp, or to spread a picnic lunch. But when they have to leave their work afterward, as they often do, to clean up the debris left by the picknickers or the campers, you can't blame them for ordering you off if you happen to be the next one to stop. We hear complaints of this kind quite frequently, and sometimes such complaints are justified. It's an easy matter to put the waste paper and pickle bottles and bread crusts back into the basket, and carry them somewhere where they can be destroyed. It also takes but a moment or two to see that the camp fire is fully extinguished, and the surroundings cleaned up before you leave. Don't forget this. For unless more care is used by picknickers and campers they're soon going to find it very difficult to find a place where they're welcome.

KEEPING FARM BOOKS.

Agricultural colleges throughout the country are trying hard to hammer it into the heads of farmers everywhere that theirs is a business the same as anything else, and that there is just as much reason why the farmer should have a system of book-keeping as there is why other business concerns need and must have it. Haphazard farming, buying without keeping track of expenditures, or selling without keeping track of revenue received, isn't the road to success in farming. Take the men in this vicinity who are most successful in raising and selling live stock, grain, poultry or fruit and you'll find that they keep a pretty close tab on what they buy and what they sell. As a result they know more about how to plan for the future; when to tighten up or when to loosen up. And it's a satisfaction, too, to be able to tell by looking back over the books just how prices shift from year to year. Get some kind of a book, no matter how poor you may be at figures, and make an attempt to keep tab on your finances. It'll pay big in the long run.

IS IT LOCUST YEAR?

We've been reading a good deal in daily papers for the past several weeks about this being "locust year," and we note reports of considerable damage from these pests in several States. We are told that the locusts are insects which are now in full development after lying for seventeen years in the grub stage in the ground. The female locust does the singing. The male locust does the singing. The female lays the eggs in the bark of twigs and the limbs of small trees which soon hatch into grubs and fall to the roots of the trees, where they burrow into the ground, often to a great depth. The grub then undergoes various changes, and sheds his coat, until in the seventeenth year he becomes a full-grown locust. They are said to be doing great damage to fruit trees, and in many instances cutting into the smaller trees so deeply as to ruin them, or to stunt their growth for all time to come. So far we have heard of no great damage being done in this immediate vicinity. It would be a good idea for farmers to remember

CAN YOU MANAGE YOURSELF?

Did you ever try to manage yourself and found out it was a hard task? If you don't know how to do it, you don't know how to manage others. Here are twenty tests, which London "Efficiency" says if you can answer yes to, that you can manage yourself and others as well:

1. Did you ever deliberately decide to break yourself of a habit and succeed in doing it?
2. Do you control your temper and not "fly off the handle" when things go wrong?
3. Are you usually cheerful and free from "grouchiness" spells?
4. Do you think for yourself and not let the opinions of others unduly influence you?
5. Do you "keep your head" in an emergency?
6. Do you remain calm when your own mistakes are pointed out to you?
7. Do your men respect you and co-operate with you?
8. Can you maintain discipline without often resorting to the use of authority?
9. Have you ever been selected to take charge of a group of dissatisfied men because of your ability to handle men?
10. Can you adjust a difficulty and retain the friendship of the person with whom you differed?
11. Can you get men under you to do things without irritating them and causing them to be resentful of your authority?
12. Are you patient when dealing with people who are hard to please?
13. Can you meet opposition without becoming confused and saying things you wish afterwards you had not said?
14. Are you sought out by your friends to handle delicate situations because of your ability to do such things?
15. Do you make and retain friends easily?
16. Do you make it a rule not to quarrel about petty things?
17. When thrown in with a group of strangers, do you adjust yourself easily?
18. When talking to superiors, do you feel embarrassment?
19. When interviewing subordinates do you put them at ease?
20. Are you able to express your own ideas without causing others to feel that you are overbearing and narrow-minded?

TOO MANY GRAFTS.

There are getting to be in this country entirely too many petty advertising grafts, schemes that take good coin out of the business man's pocket and furnish him no revenue in return. Every town in America is being invaded by the pamphlet, the magazine, the program or the road sign graft, along with a hundred others, and we note that they are coming through this section more frequently than they once did, and far too frequently for the good of local business men.

The average person, when in need of a little ready cash, seems to think that the proper thing to do is to get out something with an ad on it and raise the money regardless of the fact that his scheme from an advertising standpoint is absolutely valueless. Persons who find business a little dull in their regular line start out to peddle some kind of an advertising proposition. They appeal to the merchant on the ground that the ad is cheap, but it is, in reality, the most expensive form of advertising we know of. The rate, according to circulation, is always higher than legitimate newspaper advertising. The fellows who are getting them up have nothing invested—no wages to pay, no taxes, and they never contribute a cent toward the maintenance or improvement of the town and community.

The newspaper man does not want your advertising because he is trying to put something over. He isn't working a graft, and he isn't here today and gone with your money tomorrow. He is selling you a commodity on the same basis that you are selling merchandise to him—one hundred cents worth of advertising for every dollar you spend. And the kind of advertising that goes direct into the homes of the people you want to sell your goods to.

HE CAN'T STOP.

It would be very hard, we imagine, to convince an intelligent jury that the railroad company is responsible engineer cannot reasonably be expected to stop the train every time he reaches a place where the tracks cross a highway or to slow down to a speed which would make stopping in time possible when he sees an automobile on his right-of-way. All he can be expected to do is to blow his whistle, and he very seldom fails to do that. The moral responsibility for grade-crossing accidents in all common sense rests squarely upon highway travelers. They have been warned repeatedly by sad and terrible accidents, yet they are still in too much of a hurry or too careless to exercise simple precautions when about to cross over a railroad track. People are doing more traveling by auto now than they do at any other time in the past. It would be a good idea for drivers to remember

WITH THE WITS.

The Keys of the Other Place.

Once when Daniel Webster was sick in bed a neighboring preacher made a practice of dropping in to see him every day. One morning he made the cheerful observation to Daniel that he seemed to cough with more difficulty than usual.

"Well, now, that does surprise me," retorted the cheerful statesman, "for I have been practicing all night."

Upon another visit, Webster, with a twinkle in his eye, said: "Parson, I wish you had the keys of heaven."

"Why do you wish that, Mr. Webster?" "Because you could let me in," smiled the genial Daniel.

"It would be much better for you, Webster," chuckled the clergyman, "if I had the keys of the other place, because I could then let you out."

"Madam, won't you sit in my seat? Or would you prefer to continue to stand on my feet?"

Patrick had selected a sunny spot beside the cabin door and was enjoying his Sunday morning shave, when a neighbor passed by.

"Surp, and what are ye doing, Pat? Shaving outside?"

"And isn't it outside I should be shaving? Do ye think I'm fur lined?"

Blame the Dentist.

"Henry, why didn't you come to school yesterday?"

"I couldn't, Miss Spink. I had to go to the dentist with a toothache."

"Well, that's too bad. Does it still ache?"

"I don't know, mam."

"You don't know? Henry, you are trying to deceive me. How is it that you don't know whether your tooth aches or not?"

"The dentist kept it, Miss Spink."

Will They Ever Stop?

The ocean liner had just come within hailing distance of the Emerald Isle. An Irish traveler, getting his first glimpse of "The Old Country" after a long absence abroad, threw his hat up in the air and yelled enthusiastically, "Hooray for old Ireland!"

An Englishman, standing near by, displeased at the other's sudden outburst, gloomed, "Bah, hooray for it."

"That's right," flashed back the Irishman, "every man for his own country."

Platform of W. J. Miller Candidate for State Revenue Agent Advocating It Be Placed on Limited Salary Basis

I advocate "That the salary of the State Revenue Agent shall not exceed $5,000 per annum in full compensation for his services to be paid in the following manner:

Out of the 20 per cent commission allowed by law, to such Revenue Agent, he shall pay all the expenses of his office and attorneys fees, and retain a sum not to exceed $5,000 per annum for his salary and the balance of such commissions he shall pay into the State Treasury and make detailed itemized report to each session of the legislature as to the said account."

I favor a law providing for an annual audit of the accounts of all State officers, including the State Revenue Agent; in fact, such a law was introduced in House Bill No. 989, which was introduced at the last session of the Legislature and passed both Houses, and was vetoed by the Governor for the alleged reason that it might interfere with a suit then pending that the Revenue Agent had filed against the Insurance Commissioner. If such a bill is introduced during my incumbency as State Revenue Agent, I will not lobby, or cause it to be done, against its passage, but will give it every honorable and commendable support within my power.

I will not permit the State Revenue Agent's office to become a political asset to the Governor's office.

Should I secure judgment in the Courts against a tax-dodger, I will not, thereafter consent to, or permit, a compromise settlement with the said tax-dodger for a less amount than called for in said judgment, for in so doing, I would be establishing a precedent equivalent to inviting the tax-dodger and others so inclined to withhold the payment of their taxes according to law in order that they might be sued and afterwards make a compromise settlement with the Revenue Agent, and thereby sweeten the commissions of the Revenue Agent, and at the same time, withhold a portion of their rightful taxes due the State of Mississippi.

I will not send my deputies to the various counties of the State to harass, intimidate and terrorize honest, peaceful and patriotic farmers, who happen to have upon their limited land areas, a few trees suitable and necessary for farms, and endeavor to extort from them through the strong arm of the law, back taxes on their said limited timber holdings. It is my opinion that while a literal interpretation of the law affecting timber taxes would justify, possibly, the collection of such taxes, it is not the spirit of the law, nor was it ever intended by the law-makers that such collections should be made.

Under my administration, should any Legislative Committee during my term of office, report that a half-million dollars, more or less, has been over paid to any individual or corporation by any Department, Appointive Board, or Commission of the State, and further report, the suit could be brought by the State Revenue Agent for the recovery of this overpaid money. I will immediately enter suit to retrieve for the State the amount unlawfully so expended. Should I discover such a practice, otherwise, than through a report of a Legislative Committee, I will immediately enter suit to reclaim the unlawful expenditure, for I maintain that no faithful official in such a case needs instructions from the Legislature.

I propose to administer the affairs of the State Revenue Office in accordance with constructive principles rather than destructive. Nor will I be a party to the building of a Political Dynasty out of the spoils wrung from the Tax-Dodger, "Trusts and Combinations," so that I may hold in the hollow of my hand the Destiny of my State and have Governors, Attorney-Generals, Tax Commissioners, Levee Boards and Legislators follow my Imperial will like the hellhounds that ever turn its head to the sun, or like the day that follows the night.

Under my administration, the office of Revenue Agent shall assume an endless series of friendly gestures toward inviting capital to enter our domain unafraid of anything but to do wrong, fully protected from improper molestation, and, incidentally, to help to develop the State industrially, and thereby increase our taxable value.

In agreeing to accept the State Revenue Office on a compensation basis, not to exceed $5,000 per year, I feel that I need no additional incentive in the matter of salary, to make me faithfully discharge the duties of the office, and if elected, I pledge myself to be as diligent in the performance of such duties, as alert and assiduous in carrying out the oath of office, and as aggressive and uncompromising in securing legitimate withheld revenue, as if I received the full 20 per cent of all collected, which full 20 per cent, for the year 1921, was more than $75,000.00.

Respectfully,
W. J. MILLER.

DEAD NERVES.

(By Rea Proctor McGee, D. D. S., M. D., Editor "Oral Hygiene.")

We don't really mean dead nerves when we say it—what we mean is a tooth pulp that has had its circulation stopped. A pulp is a little, soft, connective tissue with blood vessels, and nerve fibres that is found inside the tooth and is necessary to the life of the tooth.

The pulps are very sensitive and delicate. If they are exposed they die; in fact, they die sometimes when they are not exposed. Those that die without actual exposure have been irritated by tooth decay or improper use or injury, so that the pulp swells inside its bony case and chokes itself.

The tooth pulp could stand much more irritation if it had room to swell, but in its little canal inside the tooth there is no room. As soon as the pulp is irritated enough to swell ever so little, the pressure stops the incoming of the arterial blood and the escape of the venous blood and then the circulation stops and decomposition begins.

It is very unfortunate to have the pulp in a tooth die. It is true that many times the dead pulp is successfully removed and the canal artificially filled so that the tooth remains useful for a long period, but many pulpless teeth abscess. The cleansing and filling of a tooth canal is a very difficult and skillful operation. Why not take such good care of the teeth and mouth that you will not take chances on having infection from abscessed teeth?

By keeping the teeth clean and having small cavities filled at once, the long, tedious and sometimes painful operation can be avoided. Sound teeth in good position and with healthy nerves do not give trouble; they do their work willingly.

DISABLED WAR VETERANS WELCOME OFFER OF HENRY FORD HOSPITAL.

All Veterans Admitted in the Same Manner as Private Patients, and Treated on Exactly the Same Basis.

Disabled world war veterans of Michigan have welcomed the offer recently made by the Henry Ford Hospital and already more than fifty are undergoing treatment at the big institution.

All of the veterans are admitted in the same manner as private patients and are treated on exactly the same basis. They are entitled to and receive the same quality of service and are distributed in the various units in the hospital according to the availability of rooms.

The first thought was to open a special unit for these men, but the hospital officials, after consideration, felt the men would be better served if they were distributed throughout the hospital with the other patients and accordingly this plan was carried out.

Arrangements for opening the hospital services free of any charge to all disabled veterans of the World War were made by the Michigan weeks ago at a meeting between Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion; Henry Ford, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, and Dr. Harkness, commander of the American Legion.

The arrangements for the care of the disabled veterans continue in effect until December 31, 1923. If at that time Congress has not passed necessary legislation to afford hospitalization of ex-service men, the matter will come up for further discussion and the agreement renewed for another definite period.

The ex-service men are admitted following recommendation by the welfare office of the American Legion in Detroit.

Another arrangement also has been effected between the Legion and the Henry Ford Hospital whereby in extreme cases of destitute families of former service men their children needing hospitalization will be treated when designated by the Legion office.

A Wish

"I have taken Cardui for run-down, worn-out condition, nervousness and sleeplessness, and I was weak, too," says Mrs. Silvie Eats, of Jennings, Okla. "Cardui did me just lots of good—so much that I gave it to my daughter. She complained of a soreness in her sides and back. She took three bottles of

GIRL WITH BROKEN SPINE IS ELOPER.

San Francisco, June 18.—Miss Jean Strang, whose spine was fractured in an automobile accident last year and who since has lived strapped to a board, was able to leave the board for the first time last week and seized the occasion to elope with George Franklin, who carried his bride in his arms from the automobile to the altar. Each is 19 years old.

Mrs. Pauline Franklin, mother of the bridegroom, announced that she would seek to have the marriage annulled. Mrs. Rebecca Strang, mother of the girl, also is said to favor an annulment. Police were asked to search for the couple.

From the foregoing, the old adage of "love laughs at locksmiths" has been gone one better, despite a fractured spine. This young lady found the exhilarating effect of love, that eternal something which makes even pain a pleasure and so often engenders a smile upon the lips of the dying.

Mrs. Camye Curet, of the Kiln, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. LeFebvre, in New Orleans.

Mrs. Paul Bothe, of South Baltimore, Md., is visiting her mother-in-law, Mrs. C. E. Bothe, in Kellar street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. LeFebvre, accompanied by their charming daughter, Miss Jennette, are occupying their summer home at the Kiln, which has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gager for the past two weeks, will return to her home on July 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Davis, with Mrs. C. S. Vann, of Biloxi, were guests last Sunday of Mrs. Edith K. Daxis, at her home in Carroll avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Horton are entertaining two fair guests in the persons of Mrs. Morrow, of Alabama, and Miss Luther, of the Crescent City.

Captain G. E. Mader, master of the 10,000-ton steamship Jeff Davis, cleared from New Orleans last Monday for Dublin, Cork, and Belfast, Ireland.

During the past week an electric light has been installed and turned on at night on top of the new waterworks main tower, illuminating the city for several miles and proving a great advantage. This light can be seen for over fifty miles and will act as a guide to ships at sea.

Three of the Bay's adventurous young men, Ludger Mauffray, Rufus Whitfield and Julius Moran, left during the week for New Orleans, where they intend shipping "before the mast" as sailors on some European-bound vessel. The young men are intent on "roughing it" and we dare say they will be accommodated seriously—however, we wish them good speed.

The adjutant general's office, War Department, at Washington, D. C., has forwarded the applications to enroll in the Citizens' Military Training Camp to Mrs. M. C. Gager, K. of C. Bureau, Hancock county, courts house. Any man or boy from 17 to 24 years of age can fill in one of these applications should he desire to go to the Military Training Camp for thirty days during the summer of 1923. These camps will be held at Camp McClellan, Fort Barrancas, Florida, and Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

A DEBT WE OWE THE DEAD.

When those we love most dearly on earth are called to that bourne from whence no traveller returns, and we tearfully, with leaden hearts, gently place their cold forms beneath the sod, we cover the fresh mound with beautiful flowers and water them with our tears—then we slowly turn and retrace our footsteps homeward.

Should we consider that our last office? Is it possible we owe those cold forms no more consideration, save a memorial service? Can we not prove our affection further by keeping that lonely grave in order? Aye, we can, and we must, else the world accuses us rightly of forgetting.

A few ladies of Bay St. Louis, with Mrs. W. L. Bourgeois as their president, formed an association called "Cedar Rest Association," for the purpose of keeping the cemetery of that name in good condition. A call was sent out to those who have stood upon that hallowed ground and promised their dead never to forget. The call was for a small payment to enable the good ladies to continue their work.

IT HAS NOT BEEN ANSWERED. Why, fellow citizens, can we not help to keep this sacred task alive? No matter what your contribution be, hand it to Mrs. Bourgeois and it will be in keeping with the promise your heart made as you stood with bowed head over the last that remained of your beloved.

Don't put it off. DO IT NOW!

COLUMN de BULL.

By FULLER BULL, of Bay St. Louis.

By Fuller Bull.

Micky McGuire, Esq.

Lil ole New York.

Dear Mick:

I been scribin' to Red Hogan, an' leavin' ye out in the cold when I know it would be doin' yer old heart good to get a bitta news from the old Bay, an' specially as regards the noble athletes what doin' the grand stunts in this day of championships an' the etec. Well, Micky, if yer heart is that cravin' for the latest 'mong the mighty, its me what's goin' to dish out to ye that dope what's got 'sterlin' marked all over it for the genuine article.

Ever since them college lads gotta ticket for home an' the woodpile, the two noted teams from the Animal League, what has they home grounds out furnish the broad white strrippa roadway what's got the monicker of Dunbar Ave. have been battlin' it out to the queen's taste every Sab, rain or shine. Them the Bulls an' the Bears, Micky boy, an' two hotter teams never graced anybody's diamond then what they are; them lads go out for BLOOD, aye, buckets of BLOOD, Micky, an' 't would do yer soul good to lamp 'em a few times.

Them Bears have been ridin' the Bulls so long that its gotta be a sorta habit with 'em. Noisy Gueydan stayed till he couldn't see no way to tame the Bears an' he took to the fall an' uncot, there to rest world with out end. Then a husky guy what's known on the Bayou Bowerly by the cog of Smilin' Netto, gets in the box an' says he's a real Bear tamer; well, Micky, he finds out that he's in the wrong circus, an' the pesky bruins won't eat out his hands, even with Sweet Papa all dolled up in mask an' chest protector an' etec behind the bat.

Them Bears gotta battery what would make Muggsy Mac green with envy. A husky twirler called Kid Conrad with his runnin' mate in Scraggy Geo. Johnson, has been doin' the butcherin' of the Bulls so long that they RED up to where the comb hangs out every mornin'.

Las Sab. they hadda nother barbecue out on the Ave. in a double-header. Old Jupe Pluve tried to drown 'em out for a while, but they ain't the lads to dodge the showers, they ducks right in an' starts the scrap an' old how. The mud was churned up an' all thosin' all over the grounds, only once did they take to cover, an' that was when the rain 'rads was emptyin' the whole bucket at once, they shys under the movable grandstands (or Ford stands) for a lil minute, but was soon at it again.

Corn-tassle Joe. Thibideau gets the job as Uncle Sam. The Bulls gotta go very far before them Bears gotta horn in with the kicks an' says that Joe was leavin' on the Bear side. Secen-the-motion Bill kicks up a big hole at the 3rd station an' gets so hot his collar burns a bit, Smilin' Netto swears that Corn-tassle can't tell a shootout from a fadeaway ball. Papa tells him to keep her up for the glory of the Bulls, an' he finishes the game.

The foxy Kid grins, takes another outta Star plug over on the tarboard side of his phiz, an' lobs 'em over like Carl Mays. When the mud gets right deep the Kid starts the Submarine ball an' the Bulls all went outta pasture.

The first game goes to the Bears by a score of 14 to 13.

Dan-in-the-Lions-den is Capt. of the score card again, an' seems to have a strangle hold on the job.

The honors of the willow goes to Pee-wee Payard, who slams out the only homer of the period an' drives 'em a nuptia Bears ahead of him.

The second spasm only gotta goin' two innin's when the new ungs in up 8 to 2 favor them Bears, that took the starch outta them horned animals, even with their own choice of umpire in which his mibs "Mitte-Box Elmer" Bourgeois officiated.

We don't see just why they don't go to San Claus back on the job. You don't savvy Santy, do you, Micky? Well, he's all the way on the Umps line, gotta get a lamp what never misses fire, an' hits on all 6 at one time, an' never gets whiskers tangled up.

Micky, you wouldn't treat it as gospel, but fact is them Bulls even had nerve enough to DEMand that them Bears give over two of Cedar Pt.'s best players, so just show they was sports: the Bruins turns over Vic Colson an' Emile Adams—an' puts 'em to sleep anyhow.

After the barbecue (when the Bull was all EAT up) you'da thought that they was havin' a funeral down the Ave. It was that quiet that some iane popped her chawin' gum an' everybody thought it was a gun went off.

The Bulls swear that if ever they succeed in takin' the measure of Kid Conrad in a game, theys gotta be bear meat scattered from Cedar Point clean to the Jackson house.

Well, Micky, boy, the Bay's the place again this summer, we read in the papers that you birds are all fryin' an' bakin' up in the north an' west, we do have a pity for you, because it's here we don't do either, bake or fry; we enjoy livin' in what the good Lord handed out as Amer-ica's garden on the big breezy coast, where the only thing what's hot is the stuff you buy in some dark spot from a guy wearin' boots.

We gotta have such a 4th of July that Geo. Wash will want leave his parkin' place in Mt. Vernon to be with us. Every firecracker with a guarantee not to go deeper than the skin.

Well, the same to you, Micky, when you get ready, just park yer boat down at the bayou an' enjoy livin' long with.

Yer friend,

We ride for many miles, probably forty or fifty, or more, in this country that seemingly God forgot. One of the stations is called Lava. Surrounding this station and for twenty miles around are great blocks of lava from an extinct volcano, not far away. The lava is in heavy layers and in big chunks. We were told it is hard as stone. In appearance it is porous and black and gummy. It lies in great depths and forms hills in many parts.

Meets Real Cowboy.

On the train was a real cowboy from one of the largest cattle ranches located near El Paso. From his interesting story, relating many instances, it was evident there is quite a divergence from the cowboy in real life and the cowboy in movies; save for the tall and white fedora hat. This is the cowboy's pride and prized possession. Yes, we carry a gun," said the cowboy, but not like in the movies, where the wild rides are depicted and the frequent firing, in the air is so much show. We carry a gun only when driving the stock. This is for self protection. If we should fall or be thrown off while riding, and a foot should be caught in stirrup, with horse frightened and running away, then we shoot the animal to stop his mad stampede and to be rescued from being dragged to death.

Albuquerque, City of Southwest.

Reaching Albuquerque long before daylight, on alighting, one is refreshed with the sight of a beautiful and picturesque hotel at the depot. "The Alvarado"—another of Fred Harvey's institutions connected with the Santa Fe system. The hotel is built on the Pueblo (Indian) style of architecture, containing 120 rooms. It is lavish in every appointment, thoroughly modern and feeds over two thousand people daily. The great trans-continental train stop here coming and going, and 25 minutes is allowed for meals. The hotel attracts many visitors to Albuquerque and it is well to make reservations. One must visit here to appreciate it. I have seen nothing like it, save the famous Mission Inn at Riverside, California, which was described in these columns in extensive two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Roe stopped here during Christmas week on their way to California, and to them I am indebted for the recommendation to stop here. One could tarry here long, but tempus fugit.

The University of Mexico is quite an institution here. We visited it today. Miss Lilith Anselvy, of Bay St. Louis, is attending summer normal.

Located at an altitude of 5,000 feet above sea level, the University will continue during June and July of 1923, a summer session of six weeks' duration. It will combine the advantages of sound academic stand-ards, vacation study, and recreation almost under the shadow of the great Sandia Mountains, and in proximity to Indian villages and fascinating ruins of archaeological significance.

The sunshine of New Mexico is hot, but one sleeps comfortably only under a blanket in the shade or at night in this wonderful, dry climate which is called rightly the "Well Country."

Albuquerque, in the suburbs of which is the State University, is a modern city of some 25,000 inhabitants close to the historic Rio Grande. There are few locations in America better suited for the work and play of a summer school, particularly for persons who wish a change from the enervating climate of damp regions of the South or of regions of low altitude and heat.

Miss Anselvy is enthused and interested in her work, and says the climate is exhilarating and conducive to study.

She is visiting at the home of her sister, Gueite, who is Mrs. Perry Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Miller have just moved into their own new home, a beautiful and modern structure. Their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Pickett, reside nearby in fashionable Luna street and have a handsome home and three beautiful young daughters.

Indians Abound Amplety.

It is quite interesting to view the Indians squatted in front of the hotel, and only a few yards from the trains. The Pueblo Indians live here, their abode is at Isalanta, 12 or 14 miles west of Albuquerque. They are arrayed in brightest of colors. They have not shed their blankets nor their beads, and are adorned with plenty, which they fashion from silver. This silver metal they procured from Mexican dollars.

On the ground are displayed their wares, principally pottery. The Indian is expert in the making of this ware. Of course, there are interesting curio stores here, but the prices are higher than those required of the original manufacturer, who is retailer as well as wholesaler.

In the depot building is the Indian house. Here are the more pretentious goods and wares. The Indian women are seen at work weaving the Navajo blankets and rugs. We were shown one Navajo "art square," requiring one squaw ten years to weave. The price was $750.00.

Indians Adverse to Kodak.

Everyone who travels anywhere these days goes forth with a Kodak. Mr. Temple, of the Bay Jewelry Store, supplied me with one to take advantage. Thanks to his splendid selection.

Everyone wishes to "snap" the Indians, but they are adverse to having their "picture" taken. They are filled with superstition and are creative of habit. They draw back from civilization and its customs, even though they are "civilized." However, they are not afraid of the camera. They are not afraid of the camera. They are not afraid of the camera.

CHAS. G. MOREAU.

station and a little of the long green.

Visit to Isalanta.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Wm. Pickett and his excellent wife, who before her marriage was Miss Margaret Anselvy, of Bay St. Louis, accompanied by Miss Lilith Anselvy, of Bay St. Louis, who is visiting here, we visited this Pueblo-Indian village. The trip was made in Mr. Pickett's car and the scenes along the route were both unusually interesting and picturesque. Unlike anything one sees elsewhere.

Isalanta is a typical Indian village. No one lives here but the Red-skin; save one man, a Frenchman, 70 years of age, the good padre in charge of the church, St. Augustine. He has administered to the Indians for 32 years. He is not only the spiritual adviser, but seeks their corporal interest as well. Here are 1,148 Indians. The padre is a personal friend of the late Monsseigneur Chappelle. He speaks, in addition to French, Spanish, Indian and English. The life of this saintly man is certainly one of sacrifice and self-abnegation.

We leave here tomorrow for the Grand Canyon, in Arizona, to view Nature's greatest wonder, but it will not be with a sense of satisfaction and feeling of fond recollections of the stay in Albuquerque, the heart of the great Southwest. By Saturday night we ought to be in California, the beautiful, stopping at Los Angeles. More anon.

ACTIVITIES OF COLORED METHODISTS AT GULFSIDE.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, through its commission on course of study, is holding a ten-days school for undergraduate ministers at the Jackson House, near Waveland, Mississippi. The property now bears the name of Gulfside Association, the same having been taken over recently by a group of Methodists under the leadership of Bishop R. E. Jones, and so changed and improved as to accommodate the school above referred to. Fifty young, aggressive ministers compose the school and they are engaged in intensive study upon subjects outlined by the commission. The faculty is made up of church leaders who are experts when it comes to the respective subjects handled. [Dr. Allen MacRossie, of New York, chairman of the commission, is present, but the work is directed by Dr. W. J. King, of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and that is to be expected, for the ministers to preach the Gospel more effectively. Both teachers and pupils are greatly pleased with the treatment accorded them by the citizens of this community and appear to regret that their stay must be so short. Among those to whom they are especially indebted for courtesies should be mentioned Prof. G. W. Brown, of Bay St. Louis, who has been ready day and night to help in every way requested. The following representative Methodists are present: Dr. E. M. Jones, New Orleans; Dr. M. A. Dogen, Marshall, Texas; Dr. R. W. Brooks, Austin, Texas; Dr. J. B. F. Shaw, Meridian, Miss.; Dr. M. J. Howard, Atlanta, Ga.; Rev. T. B. Echols, New Orleans; Dr. Chas. M. Melder, New Orleans; Dr. Jas. Hanan, New York; Dr. O. G. Jenken, New Orleans; Dr. S. G. Stanley and Rev. D. L. Morgan, Meridian, Miss.]

KNOWLEDGE IS SUCCESS.

When Douglas Fairbanks went to Richard Mansfield, told him he wanted to be an actor, and asked him for advice, Mansfield counselled him to go home and "develop himself," to learn all sorts of things.

"If you want to be successful," he added, "and are thrown into the world of big things, with men who have succeeded in other fields of endeavor, you will be able to speak their language."

Knowledge is the language of the Hundredth Man. Ignorance embarrasses you, shames you, makes you tongue-tied and awkward.

There is no Royal Road to Knowledge. You cannot learn its language in a week, nor a month, nor by four years in school, nor by any other spirit of effort.

There is just one Big Idea you must get, if you would take your place among the worth while people. It is: "Learn One Thing Every Day."

That is the old, smooth, straight turnpike that leads directly to your goal.

Bring your order for printing to The Echo today and get it when you want it. No long waits; no delays. Our city equipment is at your disposal. Let us plan your printing. It costs nothing to talk to over.

The Old Timer has learned to judge a man by his work—and good work makes us more friends than Big Talk.
